

Well, it's almost here, the time of year that all you men have been waiting for - SUPER BOWL SUNDAY. With the teams that are playing this year, I think watching the game will be about as much fun as watching paint dry. If the Packers or the Bears aren't involved, I'm just not interested. Looks like I'm in for a lot of boredom during football season in the next few years. My recipe this week is for all you men, who love football, love good, hot, spicy food, and love getting together to watch the big game.

SUPER BOWL SPECIAL

Layer in a pam sprayed 9 x 13 pan:

8 to 12 oz cream cheese, cut into small squares

1 can Hormel Chili

8 oz shredded Monterey Jack cheese

1 bunch green onions, chopped

1 small can sliced black olives

8 oz shredded cheddar cheese

Bake at 400 for 15 minutes or until hot. Serve with taco chips.

HELPFUL HINTS: For those of you who like a little "kick" to your food, you can add a few drops of hot sauce to this (put it on the chili layer).

This would be absolutely great served with the Hot Taco Dip, and the Cold Taco Dip, which were featured in earlier editions of the Independent.

I hope all you fans out there have a wonderful Super Bowl Sunday, and I hope you will try this recipe, you won't be disappointed. As for me, until the "Pack" comes back, I will prepare the "feast for the beasts" (just kidding guys) and then go shopping!
